Team-taught by the American Studies faculty, this course explores the textures of American popular culture. Students engage with a range of material reflecting the American experience with all its remarkable complexity and energy.

This course examines who we are.

This course meets in the classroom on MW; for Fridays, students do online activities at their convenience (between Wednesday and Friday). Questions? – jmelton@ua.edu