

AMS 231: Contemporary America

Professor Morgan

TR 9:30-10:45

This course examines the changing nature of American values for the period dating from the 1970s to the present, drawing connections between works of creative art & popular culture and the economic & political contexts of their respective decades. This course also will serve as an introduction to interdisciplinary research methods used in the field of American Studies.

